OUR NEW BORO DADS!

Their First Business Session of the Year.

ALL NEW COMMITTEES

J. Thomas Mitchell Elected Solicitor—Samuel E Showers Street Commissioner—Beezer and Jodon Retained on Police Force.

FINAL MEETING OF OLD COUNCIL

The last session of the council of 1905 was called to order Monday morning at ten o'clock. Those who were present were President Jenkins and members Seibert, Derstine, Brown, Fenlon, Keller, Kirk and Keichline.

There was an unusual amount of excitement about the council chamber while the councilmen were gathering, there were more spectators than usual which with the new boro officers to be sworn in swelled the crowd considerably. Everyone was waiting for the new council to be sworn in and the business to be transacted by the old council was of little interest. Justice John Keichline was present to swear in the new officers. Burgess Walker was there to make his final report and wind up a brilliant three years as Burgess of Bellefonte.

Boro Treasurer James K. Barnhart was there to relinquish his duties as boro treasurer in favor of his successor W. B. Rankin. Mr. Barnhart has made a faithful public official and we feel sure his successor will fill the bill equally as well. Supt. Ryan and other boro officials were also present.

The council being called to order the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. There were no verbal or written communications. Mr. Keller moved that a note for $6,500 in favor of the boro treasurer for 1 month at 5 per cent be given to take place of note which fell due March 2nd. It was seconded by Mr. Fenlon and carried.

The Burgess of Bellefonte, W. Harrison Walker then submitted his report for December, January and February which showed fines amounting to $20.50 turned over to the boro treasurer and his receipt taken therefore. Burgess Walker who now retires from office has made a record to de proud of. He has turned in more fines than any Burgess in the history of the town. He has been a terror to evil doers and he has made our town orderly in every respect. He retires with the confidence and esteem of the entire population.

Dr. Kirk took exceptions to the coal bill presented for the water works, claiming that the Water committee paid $2.25 per ton for a car load of coal when it could have been bought for less money. He further claimed that the coal was not needed and that the Water committee had no right to order coal without an order of council.

All the bills of council were approved and orders drawn. After the bills were read the retiring President Mr. Jenkins make a graceful speech in which he thanked the councilmen for their uniform courtesy during the past year and spoke of the pleasant relations which had always existed. He hoped for the incoming council a pleasant and harmonious year.

Mr. Keller on behalf of council thanked the President for his fair and impartial manner in conducting the duties of his position and expressed regret at parting with him. Council then adjourned sine-die.

The new Council and boro officials were then sworn in by Squire Keichline. Those who took the oath were W. B. Rankin, boro treasurer; J. K Johnston, tax collector; John L. Love, Overseer of the poor; J. Thomas Mitchell, auditor; and Gen. John I. Curtin, burgess. The new councilmen are C. C. Shuey, C. Y. Wagner and T. H. Hamilton.

The new council was called to order by W. T. Kelly, the clerk, who called for nomination for President. W. H. Derstine nominated Harry Keller for President, and C. Y. Wagner named Dr. Kirk. The vote was as follows: For Kirk—Keichline, Keller, Shuey, Wagner; for Keller—Brown, Derstine, Hamilton, Kirk, Seibert.

W. T. Kelly was then re-elected clerk of council by acclamation. Council adjourned until 7:30 Monday evening.

FIRST SESSION OF NEW COUNCIL.

The new council held their first real business session commencing at 7:30 Monday evening. It was a re-convened session from the morning meeting. President Keller presided with the following members present: Kirk, Shuey, Wagner, Seibert, Keichline, Hamilton, Derstine and Brown.

President Keller at once announced his committees for the ensuing year. They are as follows:

Street—Kirk, Hamilton, Brown.
Water—Seibert, Hamilton, Keichline.
Finance—Shuey, Wagner, Derstine.
Fire and Police—Derstine, Brown, Seibert.
Water Improvement—Hamilton, Keichline, Seibert, Shuey, Derstine.
Sanitary—Brown, Derstine, Kirk,
Market—Keichline, Hamilton, Wagner.
Village Improvement—Wagner, Kirk, Shuey.

The appointments seemed to give general satisfaction.

William H. Derstine who for the past six years has had the arduous duties of Chairman of the Street committee besides being a member of the Water committee asked to be relieved from both these committees. President Keller very reluctantly granted this request. Mr. Derstine is serving his third term in council and has made a faithful painstaking public official. Six years as chairman of such an important committee as the Street committee is an honor seldom conferred in this council.

The following candidates were announced for the different appointments at the disposal of council: Street Commissioner, Thomas Shaughnessy, J. H. Johnson, Barney Gallagher, H. B. Kerns, Edward J. Brown Jr., Samuel E. Showers.

Police—George Jodon, Wm. Beezer, John H. Anderson.

Solicitor—Clement Dale, J. Thomas Mitchell, D. F. Fortney, W. Harrison Walker.

Supt. Water Works—S. H. Ryan, J. M. Cunningham.

A fifteen minute recess was then taken to consider the candidates.

The Street Committee recommended the appointment of Samuel E. Showers, as Street Commissioner at $1.50 per day. He was unanimously elected.

The fire and police committee recommended the election of George Jodon and William Beezer as police officers for the ensuing year and they were elected by acclamation.

The Water Committee were unable to agree on a candidate for Water Superintendent and asked that it be held over until next meeting. It was so ordered Supt. Ryan to remain in charge until his successor is elected.

The selection of a boro solicitor was taken up by secret ballot and resulted as follows:

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th
Mitchell	3	4	4	5
Walker	2	2	3	2
Fortney	2	2	2	2
Dale	1	1	1

J. Thomas Mitchell having received the majority of the votes was declared elected boro Solicitor for the ensuing year.

Overseer of the Poor, John D. Love offered his bond in the sum of $3,000 signed by John M. Shugert and James Harris. It was approved.

W. B. Rankin as boro treasurer submitted his bond in the sum of $25,000 with the Bellefonte Trust Company as security. It was approved.

Dr. Kirk asked the Finance committee through the President to figure out by next meeting night how much money the Street committee would have to spend the ensuing year.

Previous to the election of a boro solicitor, a resolution was offered by Dr. Kirk fixing the salary of the Solicitor at $100 per year. This is to be in full for all his services, advice, drawing ordinances and cases in court. The motion was seconded and carried.

All those present could not help but feel satisfied that Council was starting out with prospects for a harmonious and successful year's business, and that great good will be accomplished for the taxpayers of Bellefonte.

Bill to Limit Public Printing.

Washington, March 2nd.—Representative Perkins (N. Y.) has prepared a bill limiting the amount of public printing, which he will submit at once to the commission, consisting of Senator Gorman, Representative Landis (Ind.,) and himself, which is considering that subject. It provides that congress shall specifically order how many copies of each document shall be printed and directs the proportionate distribution of such documents to be allotted between the senate, the house and executive department affected.

A FEARFUL CYCLONE!

Hundreds are Dead In Storm Which Swept Mississppi

FIRE ADDS TO HORROR

Meridian the Scene of a Frightful Catastrophe, but Reports Giving Details are Meagre.

TELEGRAPH WIRES ARE ALL DOWN.

Mobile, Ala., March 3.—A long distance telephone from Meridian, Miss., says a cyclone accompanied by heavy rain struck that city last evening at 6:30 o'clock. The storm centre was in the southern portion of the city and particularly heavy along Front street, one of the principal business streets of the town. Nearly every house on Front street is reported to have been demolished.

FIRE BREAKS OUT IN RUINS.

The Armor packing plant from which this message was received by long distance, is the only building left standing and the roof of this is gone. Fire broke out in the ruins and despite the heavy rain the flames were burning fiercely when this report was filed.

A number of bodies are reported to be in the ruins, and the rescuers are working by candle light. The city is in total darkness, the electric lighting plant having been put out of business.

MUCH DAMAGE AT OTHER POINTS

The cyclone did severe damage at other points adjacent to Meridian, and the trains entering Meridian are delayed indefinitely. The Western Union Telegraph company reported having lost fifteen miles of wire, and the Postal Telegraph company also suffered great damage.

The wires are down between Atlanta Birmingham, Memphis and other points and it is impossible to secure communication with the striken city.

BEING SWEPT BY FLAMES.

A private long distance message received from Meridian at 9:30 p. m., says the fire is raging in the devatated district. The work of the rescuers is going bravely on, but owing to all lights being out lanterns and candles are being used and the work is necessarily slow.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY DEAD

It is thought that 150 dead bodies are in the wreckage.

The Union depot is one of the buildings blown away. The telegraph wires are still down between Meridian, Mobile and other points.

FRANCISCO L. HERRERA.

A Young Porto Rican Student Dies at State College.

Francisco L. Herrera, a young Porto Rican student, died at the home of Dr. Robinson at State College Sunday afternoon, after a brief illness of pneumonia. His death has cast a gloom over the entire college. He was one of four students sent here last fall by the Porto Rican government to be educated.

The young man's home was at Anasco, Porto Rico, where his parents live.

The remains were brought to Bellefonte Monday and taken to the undertaking establishment of Frank Naginey where they were prepared for burial. This morning the body was taken to Branch cemetery, College township, for interment.

No Retrograde in Coleville.

Readers of this paper will be glad to know that there were one hundred and five persons present at the Gospel Service and Bible school in that suburban village last Sunday afternoon.

The singers of the Salvation Army rendered very efficient service in the praise part of the worship as well as otherwise. The scholars recitations of memorized lessons were highly commendable.

Next Sabbath at 2 p. m. sharp, the good work begun will continue. There will be a Bible presentation to those who repeat the Lord's Prayer correctly according to Matt. 6:9-13. Special attention will always be given to the praise part of the exercises.

ARGUMENT COURT

Also Hearing of Applications for Liquor License

The regular March argument court convened on Monday with Judge Orvis on the bench. Various petitions were presented and passed upon by the Court. Several cases were argued the most important being the case of Bert Delige, of Scotia, convicted at the last session of Court of murder in the second degree. E. R. Chambers made a strong plea in behalf of the negro and showed that since the trial new evidence favorable to Delige has been discovered. One fact of importance brought out was that the gun which Delige shot the boy with was a defective gun and the least jar would set it off. District Attorney W. G. Runkle made a very determined plea against granting a new trial. He denied that the gun with which the killing was done was defective.

Noah H. Swayne II, was admitted to practice law in the courts of Centre county.

Two young law students are getting their lines set to be admitted to the bar. They are Paul Fortney and James Furst.

The Court then took up the license question. Remonstrances have been filed against Ed Henderson, Howard, the hotel at Eagleville; Jesse Cox at Pleasant Gap; James Nugent, wholesale at Casanova; and Chas. Moersbacher wholesale beer, Bellefonte. The Judge ordered depositions to be taken in all cases where there were remonstrances and gave them until Saturday a week to have them all in. He did not grant any licenses at all as yet, but by the tenor of his remarks it seemed to indicate that licenses would be granted where there were no remonstrances.

The Court requested that all drinking places be closed all day on the following holidays: Thanksgiving, Christmas and Memorial Day. He also requested that no liquor in bottles be sold over the bars. This was a stunner to the hotel people and will tend to break up drinking on the streets. Those who cannot buy liquor at the bar by the drink will not be able to have some one else buy it for them by the bottle.

There was quite a delegation present from Howard, mostly ladies, to remonstrate against the Syracuse House license.

IRA D. SANKEY'S HOME ROBBED-

Burglars Steal Oil Paintings and Silver ware From Stricken Evangelist.

New York, March 3rd.—One of the mementos of Ira D. Sankey's evangelical work, a picture of the Golden Gate, entitled "The Gardens of the Gods," presented to him by friends in San Francisco after he and Mr. Moody had held a revival in that city, was cut from the frame by burglars who entered Mr. Sankey's home in Brooklyn Monday. Two other oil paintings were destroyed in the same way, and the burglars stole enough silverware and bric-a-brac to make the total loss not far from $1000.

It was Mr. Sankey's request that the police did not make the news of the burglary public, as he feared that it would cause his many friends to worry. Hopelessly blind and bedridden, he was greatly relieved when told that the robbers had not injured any one of the household.

DEATH ANGEL BUSY

Well Known Citizens Who Have Answered the Final Roll Call.

REV. GORMLEY CALLED

Was at One Time Pastor of St. John's Catholic Church.—A. A. Kohlbecker a Leading Citizen of Milesburg, Has Passed Away.

VACANT CHAIRS IN MANY HOMES.

Rev. Father J. J. Gormley, rector of the St. Joseph' Catholic church of Renovo, for many years, passed away Tuesday evening at half past six, after a month's illness. Father Gormley was at one time pastor of St. John's Catholic church at this place.

He had been in ill health for the past six years, suffering from a complication of ailments. At times he recuperated to such an extent that he was able to perform his church duties in a measure. Last summer a year ago he spent several months in Atlantic City, and received marked benefit from the sea air, but the improvement was only temporary. Since the beginning of last month he had been confined to his bed.

Father Gormley was born in Ireland 56 years ago last January. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1875 by the late Rt. Rev. J. F. Shanahan, first bishop of Harrisburg. He took his first studies for the priesthood in All Hallows college in Ireland, and coming to America, studied theology at Niagara university, Suspension, N. Y.

Father Gormley has been in charge of St. Joseph's church at Renovo for the past 16 years. Among the lasting monuments in our sister borough to his zeal are the handsome St. Joseph's church building, which was erected through his untiring efforts, the remodeling of the rectory, the installation of a $4,000 pipe organ in the church, and the marked improvement to the parochial school building, as well as the high elevation of the standard of studies

In view of his unselfish zeal, sacrifice and devotion to duty, as revealed by his magnificent achievements, Father Gormley two years ago had conferred upon him the unusual honor of irremovable rector by Rt. Rev. Eugene A. Garvey, which permitted him to remain in Renovo as rector of St. Joseph's church as long as he desired.

The funeral was conducted on Friday morning, in St. Joseph's church beginning with the chanting of the divine office at 9:15, followed by pontificial requiem mass, which was celebrated by Rt. Rev. E. A Garvey, D. D. bishop of Altoona diocese, who was assisted by a great number of priests from both the Altoona and Harrisburg diocese. Father P. McArdle, of Bellefonte, who was ordained with Father Gormley, and between whom there has existed a life long friendship, pronounced the panegyric.

About a year ago Father Gormley had erected in Drury's Run cemetery a fine and costly monument to mark the last resting place of himself and any other priests who may end their days in Renovo and whose bodies will be laid away in this cemetery.

A. A. KOHLBECHER

It is with sincere regret we are called upon again to chronicle the death of one of our county's foremost citizens, Mr. A. A. Kohlbecker which sad event occurred at his home in Milesburg Saturday morning at 8:45 o'clock.

His death coming so suddenly and unexpected as it did, after only two days illness with pneumonia was not only a great shock to his family but to the community in general; while it was known that he had been ailing with dropsy, his death was not expected.

Mr. Kohlbecker was the son of Vincent and Catherine Kohlbecker and was born in Baden, Germany; August 21st, 1845, making his age 60 years, 6 months and 12 days. He came to this country when a young man and at once took an active hand in the business affairs of the community in which he lived. He was united in marriage to Anna A. Seigwarth who preceded him to the grave about two years ago. To this union was born the following children who survive to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate father Louis F. and Frank C., Jeanette; Mrs. S. H. Valimont, Keewayden; H. F., Emma Stella, Frances, Josephine, and A. A. Jr., at home and Miss Lena in the Polk institution.

For a number of years Mr. Kohlbecker has been the genial landlord of the Central City Hotel.

The funeral cortege left from his late home Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Requiem High Mass in St. John's Catholic church at Bellefonte at 10 o'clock. Interment in the Catholic cemetery.

An Excellent Woman Passes Away.

The angel of death came to the home of John H. Chatham, at McElhattan, Saturday morning at 7:30 o'clock, and summoned the spirit of his beloved wife, Barbara Jane Chatham, to the unseen world beyond, after an illness of nine weeks' duration, during which time she had been confined to her bed. In fact her health began to fail three years ago, when she suffered a stroke of paralysis. Deceased was a most excellent woman, and was beloved by all who knew her. She was a kind mother, a loving wife, and patient in tribulation, and her last days and weeks on earth were peaceful, for daughters and friends lovingly ministered unto her wants. Mrs. Chatham was a daughter of the late Philip and Phoebe Gramley, of Rebersburg, and went to McElhattan as a bride about 30 years ago, since which time she had resided there. She was aged 58 years and 9 months, and is survived by her husband and the following named children: Lewis B, and John H. Chatham, McElhattan; Mrs. Bert Gardner, Little Falls, N. Y.; Mrs. George T. Smith, Pittsburg; Miss Rae Chatham and Miss Marie Chathamat home. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the home by Rev. A. A. Parr, of Lock Haven, deceased having been a member of the Lutheran denomination at Rebersburg. Burial were made in Linwood cemetery.

Birthday Celebration.

There was a festive gathering at the home of Mrs. M. A. Woods, in Boalsburg, Saturday evening Feb. 24th, to celebrate her birthday as well as that of Mrs. J. H. Meyer. The chief event of the evening was the good supper, when the guests were served with all the delicacies of the season. The "feast of reason and flow of soul" which came later, was equally enjoyable.

An interesting feature of the evening was a recitation by Mr. J. H. M. Meyer, which she had learned when a child, eight years old. This, with reminiscent stories, songs and recitation, filled the evening.

The guests were Mrs. J. H. Meyer, Mrs. W. Meyers, Mrs. Kate Riley, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Motherbaugh, Mrs. Wm. Goheen, Mrs. Magoffin, and Miss Woods of Spring Mills.

Girls in Peril in Factory Fire

Bridgeport, Conn., March 1.—Five minutes after some 500 factory girls had marched out of the big factory of the Star Shirt company the building was a roaring furnace, and within an hour it was in ruins. When some of the girls from the upper floors reached the second story the sight of the smoke freightened them and about 20 of them became panic stricken. These were taken from the windows to the ground by the firemen. All the other girls continued quietly on their march. Mrs. Jennie Heaphy, 42 years old, one of the operatives, became so excited that she collapsed and died soon afterward. The fire caused a loss of about $75,000.

OPERATORS WILL MEET!

Outcome of the Meeting Which Was Held in City of Pittsburg Wednesday.

GIVE THEIR REASONS

Meeting is Called In Deference to the Wishes of the President of the United States.

THE QUESTION OF SETTLEMENT

Pittsburg, Pa. March 1,—Nearly all the members of the operators' committee of the four bituminous coal mining states, parties to the interstate agreement, responded to the call of Chairman F. L. Robbins, of the Pittsburg Coal company, for a meeting Wednesday to consider a proposition to hold another meeting with the miners on the wage disagreement.

The meeting was called by Mr. Robbins as the result of a letter from President Roosevelt asking that another attempt be made to avoid a strike in the bituminous fields and calling attention to Mr. Robbins' responsibility as a member of the National Civic Federation.

The session lasted about two hours and at the close a statement was issued setting forth that a general conference of the operators of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois had been called to meet at Indianapolis on March 19, and that it had been called entirely in deference to the wishes of President Roosevelt, no action having been taken looking to settlement of the miners' dispute.

The statement says:

"In issuing a request for a conference of the coal operators of the four states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Western Pennsylvania at Indianapolis on March 19th, it is positively stated by all the operators joining in this call that said meeting has been called entirely in deference to the wishes of the president of the United States, and that no action has been taken or agreement of any kind has been made by any operator up to this date regarding any possible settlement of existing differences. No settlement is possible on any terms until after each meeting has been held and the individual views of all of the operators of the four states have been obtained."

The call for the general conference, which was signed by all the operators present today, follows:

"Pittsburg, Pa., February 8th, 1906. —To the Operators of Western Pennsylvania, Indiana and Illinois: In view of the suggestion made by the president of the United States that an effort be made to adjust the differences now existing between the bituminous operators and the miners of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, we the undersigned operators, acting in our individual capacities, request that operators of those states assemble for conference at the Claypool hotel, Indianapolis, Ind., on Monday, March 19th, at 10 a. m."

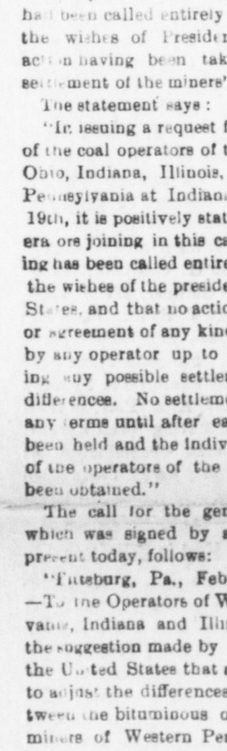
"COMPLETELY DISCOURAGED"

Is the feeling and plaint of women who are "run-down" so low that work drags, head aches, back ackes, hands tremble, voice quivers, little things annoy and "everything goes wrong."



Look the other way just a minute and see what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for more than a half-million women in the last thirty years.

What it has done for others it can do for you.

Believing that alcoholic, stimulating medicines were doing much harm, Doctor R. V. Pierce turned his investigating mind upon the problem of producing a remedy for the use of weak and suffering women that should be free from alcohol and at the same time EFFECTIVE AND SAFE.

Nature has provided abundantly for such needs and Dr. Pierce found in native medicinal plants such as the roots of GOLDEN SEAL, LADY'S SLIPPER, BLACK COHOSH, UNICORN and BLUE COHOSH, the needed medicinal properties which by peculiar processes strictly his own, without the use of alcohol, he has extracted, preserved and combined in exact proportions to secure from each its best effect. Thus compounded his "FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION" is a remedy for the pains and drains, weaknesses and inflammation of the uterine system that has won world-wide fame by curing more than ninety-nine out of every hundred who have used it properly.

In taking this you will know what you take and take what you know to be good.

If in any doubt as to what is best for you, write and ask advice of Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y., and reliable medical advice will be sent you by return mail in securely sealed envelope. All correspondence free and strictly confidential.

A GLIMPSE AT HAVANA.

There Are Many Objects of Interest In Cuba's Capital.

While the ears and the eyes of the tourist in Havana are filled with the din from day to day and far into the night of the major notes of the city's strenuous life, the strident gongs on thousands of carriages, the equally noisy gongs of the trolley cars, the masses of color and the strange scenes all about him, the minor notes of the teeming life begin after a few days to make themselves heard, and these have an equal attraction and charm. The street venders of Havana and their often melodious cries and occasionally the reverse, as, for instance, the rasping cry of the peanut vender when a concert is on at Central park or the Malecon, are as interesting to the average globe trotter, to whom Havana is but a brief stopping place on his rounds, as to the more serious observer, to whom everything in a new land appeals as worthy of attention.

The street sellers have their hours and their ways, and each appears at his appointed time. A seller of sweets at dawn and a seller of mangoes after sunset are alike inconceivable. The seller of balloons sounds a small metal pitch pipe, such as musicians use, while the scissors grinder trundles his wheel and gives out a small plaintive air from a set of reeds. Frequently the performer embellishes the scale with fugitive grace notes, according to his talents and taste, and the plain scale becomes quite a musical composition.

These two do not intrude upon one another's methods. The balloon seller and other balloon sellers will use a pitch pipe, while the scissors grinder will use the reeds, and so with the others. The sellers of fruits, of shoes, of bread, of flowers, of notions and countless other small needs of the people have their individual mannerisms and cries, and very quaint they are too. The tourist will naturally search out specimens for himself, and as there is no dearth of good material he will make discoveries at any hour of the day in frequented as well as most unfrequented streets.

Some of the more prosperous of this street tribe own carts, hauled by diminutive donkeys or own ponies, on which they pack their wares. You will even come across even more diminutive outfits, in which a goat is the motive power, and very often the goat will be caparisoned with bells and plumes, in imitation of the American horses attached to the merchandise drays, which are ornamented with great colored plumes and bells and brass studded harness. For the tourists' needs and desires the great stores on Obispo, O'Reilly, San Rafael and other thoroughfares in Havana will be found sufficient for all demands. Obispo is an ideal street—asphalt roadway, wide concrete sidewalk, overhead awnings that stretch from housetop to housetop, which make a delicious shade and coolness in the heat of the day, and stores where the finest of French and Spanish and American products are on exhibition; fans, jewelry, bric-a-brac, silks, laces, are here in the greatest abundance of the richest and most ornate workmanship and at moderate prices. The visitor will not soon weary of these most attractive thoroughfares. —Cuba Review.

Irving's Wonderful Self Denial.

There was one special act in Irving's young life on the stage that has a lesson for all young artists. When, in 1859, having then had three full years of experience as a player, he got a three years' engagement in London and made his appearance at the Princess', he came to the conclusion that his work was not yet good enough for metropolitan favor. So he resolutely bent himself to the task before him and, with the reluctant consent of his manager, canceled his engagement. He went back to the weary routine and labor and hardship of the provinces till the time should come for a more worthy effort. When we remember that a London engagement was, and is, the goal of an ambitious actor's hopes and that it means regular work and regular pay and an ever increasing opportunity for distinguishing oneself, we can understand that his self denying resolution was little less than heroic. When, however, he did come again, seven years later, he had his reward. He came to stay. He knew his work then and knew that he knew it. His record from that on was an unbroken one of success and honor. His fight was won. —Success Magazine.

Hunting Birds With Greyhounds.

The great bustard is the rarest bird that comes under the category of "game." This bird formerly haunted all the level counties of England and was particularly common on Salisbury Plain. From the reign of Henry VIII. repeated measures were passed in order to protect it, and it is expressly included under the head of game in the statute of the first year of the reign of William IV., which codified and reformed the laws relating to game.

The close season for bustard shooting was, and is, from the 1st of March to the 1st of September.

But the native bustard is now extinct in England. The last was killed at Swaffham, in Norfolk, in 1838. Any that have been shot since have been merely casual visitors, probably coming from the plains of Saxony. The causes of the disappearance of the bustard are, firstly, the sport they afforded, for they were hunted with greyhounds as well as shot; secondly, the increase in the amount of cultivated land.

WHERE HUXLEY FAILED.

One "Art" In Which He Was Surpassed by a Porter.

Rather a good story is told about Professor Huxley when he was delivering a lecture to the Literary and Philosophical society, Newcastle-on-Tyne. The subject was "The Geographical Distribution of Fossil Remains of Animals;" consequently numerous diagrams were required. Old Alexander, the porter of the institution and quite a distinguished character among the members of the society, was assisting the professor to hang the diagrams. The screen on which the diagrams were hung was not very large, and Huxley, do as he would, could not prevent the blank corner of one diagram overlapping the illustration of another one on which the professor placed great importance.

What was to be done? The professor asked Alexander to bring a pair of scissors. Lord Armstrong (then Sir William), Dr. Watson and several others were present at the time. The scissors were brought, but as the joint was somewhat loose the professor was not able to cut the paper and threw the scissors down in disgust, adding that they were useless.

"Vera guid shears, professor," said Alexander.

"I tell you they won't cut," said Huxley.

"Try again," said Alexander. "They will cut."

The professor tried again and, not succeeding, said somewhat angrily, "Bring me another pair of scissors."

Sir William Armstrong then stepped forward and ordered Alexander to go and buy a new pair.

"Vera guid shears, Sir William," persisted Alexander, and, picking up the scissors from the table and placing his thumb and forefinger into the handles, he stepped forward and asked Huxley how he wanted the paper cut.

"I tell you they won't cut," said the professor.

"Bring me a new pair instantly," said Sir William.

"A tell'ee ther'r vera guid shears, only the professor canna cut wi' them," replied Alexander.

"Well, then, cut it there," said Huxley somewhat tartly, at the same time indicating the place with his forefinger. Alexander took hold of the paper and, inserting the scissors, pressed the blades together and cut off the required portion as neatly as if he had used a straightedge; then, turning to the professor, with a rather significant leer and twinkle of the eye, said, "Seeance an' airt dinna gang thegither, professor."

The professor and all present collapsed. Huxley put his hand into his pocket and, taking out a sovereign, gave it to Alexander, adding at the same time, "You have done me." The same evening Alexander related the story with great gusto to a friend. When asked how he dared to make so free with such a distinguished man, he replied with great emphasis, "Lord, mon, they bits o' professor bodies ken nae thing at a' except their bulks."—Westminster Gazette.

Talents.

As to the great and commanding talents, they are the gift of Providence in some way unknown to us. They rise where they are least expected. They fail when everything seems disposed to produce them, or at least to call them forth.—Burke.

Every Two Minutes

Physicians tell us that all the blood in a healthy human body passes through the heart once in every two minutes. If this action becomes irregular the whole body suffers. Poor health follows poor blood; Scott's Emulsion makes the blood pure. One reason why is such a great aid is because it passes so quickly into the blood. It is partly digested before it enters the stomach; a double advantage in this. Less work for the stomach; quicker and more direct benefits. To get the greatest amount of good with the least possible effort is the desire of everyone in poor health. Scott's Emulsion does just that. A change for the better takes place even before you expect it.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Report of Secretary of Ladies Auxiliary Bellefonte Hospital for 1905

Five meetings were held during the year with an average attendance of six members. The former president Mrs. A Allison and Miss Emma Montgomery resigned from the board at the beginning of the year. Mrs. Hastings was elected president and Miss Adelaide Merriman, Secretary.

In April a concert was given under the directions of Miss Rebecca Lyon, money received $101 05.

The money handed in during the year from honorary members of the society will be shown in treasurers report, in that report will also appear the items of money spent.

Among the gifts gratefully received was $50 from Mrs Henry McCormick, of Harrisburg, to be used as the society should choose.

The amount of money spent for Hospital furnishings during the year was $156.60.

At Thanksgiving time 200 large bags were sent out to the surrounding towns and Bellefonte to be filled for the Thanksgiving offering. They were returned generously filled with supplies

The Centre Hall Auxiliary sent in addition to this $5.

At the last meeting the use of gas in the Hospital was urgently laid before the society, and ways and means discussed for raising money needed On account of the lack of gas the fine sterilizer in the operating room cannot be used and all boiling water for operative use have to be carried by the nurses from the kitchen up to the operating room on 2nd floor.

An entertainment is now being discussed to be given in the spring for the purpose of raising money and in the early fall the society proposes to have a country store, selling clothing and numerous useful articles. All those interested in the hospital are asked to put by any winter clothing or other articles that they may have to give away and they will be called for and thankfully received by the society in the fall when they decide upon the date for their sale.

The present officers and members of the board are as follows.

Mrs. D. H. Hastings, Pres.
Mrs. M. B. Garman, Treas.
Miss Adelaide Merr
Mrs. Jos. Ceader,
Mrs. Fauble,
Mrs. Crider,
Mrs. Amos Mullen.

Any gift or legacies for the hospital will be gratefully accepted and no doubt put into immediate use as the needs are many and constant.

The society extends thanks to the press for printing notices and to all who have helped them in any way and they hope the interest may not flag and that the help will continue in the work in the coming year.

Miss A Merriman, Secy.
Mrs. D. H. Hastings, Pres.

THE MOOSE HUNTER.

How He Entices the Bull With a Birch Bark Trumpet.

The moose calling hunter is one who with a birch bark trumpet imitates the bellow of the cow moose and tempts the bull forth into plain view for an easy shot.

Though the least sportsmanlike, it is the most effectual way of getting bull moose. Fortunately for them, it can be practiced only for a fortnight or so at the beginning of the season and in exactly the right weather and surroundings.

Dead calm is essential. If there be wind from the moose to you he cannot hear your call; if it be from you to the moose he smells you and flies to far regions. In a calm the call can be heard for miles, so far indeed that even if the moose came directly and quickly he might be an hour or more in getting to your stand. I once called from a hill at sunset and learned later that my friends four miles away heard me distinctly, and therefore a moose with his keen hearing might have heard it five or six miles off.

The experienced hunter begins very low, as there is always a possibility of a bull lurking in some near thicket, and calls not more than once in ten minutes, some think every twenty minutes often enough. It is probably too fast once the response has come. The bull's answer is a deep, long grunt, varied by the snapping of branches as he plunges forward through the woods, but stopping at times to thrash some bush in his course.

It is indeed one of the most impressive sights in the animal world when at length in the last dim afterglow the much heralded monster heaves his bulk into view, overtopping the shrubbery like an elephant, looming huge and black against the last streak of red light. No matter how much we may be expecting it, the coming is always a thrilling surprise. We knew how big he was, yet how startlingly huge he looks, and those heavy antlers, a heavy burden for a man, he switches about as an Indian does the eagle feathers in his hair.—Ernest Thompson Seton in Scribner's.

Jackson and Polk.

One of the last earthly things that Jackson did was to read a note from Polk asking his advice about the appointment of certain federal officers in the south. Polk had been in office only a few weeks at the time, and he wanted to get the indorsement of Jackson for his administration. In order to win Jackson's favor Polk was called "Young Hickory" by his admiring friends, but "Old Hickory's" favorite for the nomination in 1844 was Van Buren and not Polk. Jackson was a Texas annexationist, as was Polk, while Van Buren's opposition to annexation was what caused his defeat for the candidacy. Yet personally he preferred Van Buren. Polk, after his inauguration, made war on Francis P. Blair, who edited Jackson's and Van Buren's old organ at Washington, the Capital, and thus displeased Jackson, though the latter knew that Blair had been lukewarm toward Polk in the canvass. Blair was forced to get out, and the Capital was changed into the Daily Union, with Ritchie of Richmond as its editor. From the hour of his retirement until his death, through Van Buren's administration and in the opening days of Polk's, Jackson remained an influential figure in the Democratic politics of the time.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Lincoln's Advice to Lawyers.

"Discourage litigation," was Lincoln's advice to lawyers. "Persuade your neighbors to compromise whenever you can. Point out to them how the nominal winner is often the real loser—in fees, expenses and waste of time. As a peacemaker the lawyer has a superior opportunity of becoming a good man. There will always be enough business. Never stir up a litigation. A worse man can scarcely be found than one who does this. Who can be more nearly a fiend than he who habitually overhauls the register of deeds in search of defects in titles whereon to stir up strife and put money in his pocket? A moral tone ought to be infused into the profession which should drive such men out of it."

It has been truly said that those words should be posted in every law office in the land, and it will be seen when Lincoln's record is fully examined that it was not a mere theorist who wrote them, but an active practitioner of wide experience who lived up to his own teaching.—Frederick Trevor Hill in Century.

Samuel Johnson and Women.

Of marriage in the abstract Johnson highly approved. "Every man," he said, "is a worse man in proportion as he is unfit for the married state." He approved of a man contracting a second marriage and considered it as a compliment to the first wife. He acknowledged, however, that he had once been on the point of asking Mrs. Johnson not to marry again. She might well have granted his request without any fear of being tempted to break her promise. Johnson ridiculed the idea of a man being unwilling to marry a pretty woman lest he should have cause for jealousy. "No, sir," he said, "I would prefer a pretty woman unless there are objections to her. A pretty woman, if she has a mind to be wicked, can find a readier way than another, and that is all." He had, in fact, made a profound study of women from every point of view. And yet Johnson never took women quite seriously and would not hear of their assuming an equality with men, either in mental or bodily pursuits.

LINCOLN'S DISPOSITION.

Ordinarily Cheerful, It Held a Strain of Deep Melancholy.

Hopeful and cheerful as he ordinarily seemed, there was in Mr. Lincoln's disposition a strain of deep melancholy. This was not peculiar to him alone, for the pioneers as a race were somber rather than gay. Their lives had been passed for generations under the most trying physical conditions, near malaria infested streams and where they breathed the poison of decaying vegetation. Insufficient shelter, storms, the cold of winter, savage enemies and the cruel labor that killed off all but the hardiest of them had at the same time killed the happy-go-lucky gayety of an easier form of life. They were thoughtful, watchful, wary; capable, indeed, of wild merriment, but it has been said that although a pioneer might laugh he could not easily be made to smile. Lincoln's mind was unusually sound and sane and normal. He had a cheerful, wholesome, sunny nature, yet he had inherited the strongest traits of the pioneers, and there was in him, moreover, much of the poet, with a poet's capacity for joy and pain. It is not strange that as he developed into manhood, especially when his deeper nature began to feel the stirrings of ambition and of love, that these seasons of depression and gloom came upon him with overwhelming force.—Helen Nicolay in St. Nicholas.

THE BARK OF TREES.

Nature's Provision For the Relief of the Growing Plant.

The practical cultivator understands that nature makes provision for getting rid of the bark of trees as the trunk increases in size. On the growth of the past season may be seen small olive spots. These are formations of cork. From year to year, in subsequent development, these little patches spread, really eating their way through the bark. This is the provision which nature makes for finally rifting the bark in each species of plant. These cork cells have their own special lines of development, and this is the reason why each kind of tree has its own particular bark. The characteristics are so prominent that clever observers can select different kinds of trees by their bark even at midnight. As it is the evident intention of nature to get rid of old bark, it is a great help to the tree to assist nature in this respect, and any wash or treatment which aids the plant in getting rid of it is a practical advantage. Soapy water wash or lye water is useful, and even scraping has been found of great advantage. In a rough sort of way lime wash is frequently used, the only objection being the white and glaring color. It is, however, the cheapest and the best of all bark treatment.

A CREATIVE VOCATION.

It Is a Constant Tonic as Well as a Perpetual Delight.

If you want to be contented and happy, if you want to experience a perpetual satisfaction as you go along, choose a creative vocation. A routine life where there is nothing new, nothing special to be learned, is discouraging, paralyzing to ambition, but creative work, which makes a perpetual call upon originality and individuality, is a constant tonic. Nothing gives greater satisfaction than the daily feeling that you have created, that you have brought something new into the world from your brain—something which has taxed your ingenuity and which makes you feel that you have added to the real wealth of the world; that you have not been merely working over what somebody else started or created, but that you have brought something out of the mysterious realm of mind, made it tangible and effective and started a new impulse in the world.

We get closer to nature when we are creating, whether in art, in literature, in invention or in working at new and progressive ideas. We can feel our mind reach out into infinity and grasp and bring back something fresh, new, something never seen on this earth before. It is perpetual delight and a consummate satisfaction.

This is why brain workers are longer lived than other people. Creations keep the creator always young, since we are perpetually in contact with the new, the youthful, when we are creating. When we are stretching the mind into the unknown and calling out something new we seem to touch hands with the Creator himself.

People who never think or do anything original—mere automatons, cogs in the wheels of the great world's machinery, the mere routinists, do not know the exhilaration which comes from the consciousness of creating something new and fresh every day. The creator feels that he is accomplishing something worth while; that he is doing something which the world needs, which will make it a little better place to live in, and the very newness, the novelty, the mystery of creation, makes it the most fascinating thing in the world.—Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

Wedding Gift from Miss Roosevelt.

One of the most [illegible] and interesting pieces of information relative to Miss Alice Roosevelt's marriage to Mr. Nicholas Longworth is that all of the members of the party who accompanied them to the Philippines will unite in presenting the young couple with a splendid wedding gift in the shape of a souvenir of the journey, says the New York Tribune's Washington correspondent. This will in nowise interfere, of course, with the individual gift from any member of the party, but will be an imperishable memento to remind them of the friends who added to the pleasure of the [illegible]

A HEARTY LAUGH.

It Is a Blessing, This Reflex of a Sunshiny Soul.

The cold, chilling atmosphere which sometimes pervades a reception or other social gathering is often entirely dissipated by the hearty, ringing laughter of some simple, genuine soul who is bubbling over with fun. The stiffness and constraint which a minute before embarrassed the whole company are relieved as if by magic.

There is something in genuine, spontaneous humor which removes all restraint, scatters embarrassment, relieves tension and welds souls together as no introduction or conversation can. It puts the shy at ease, dissipates prejudice, gives confidence to the timid and reassures the shrinking soul. The cheery smile or the spontaneous laugh awakens sympathy and arouses feelings of friendliness. It seems to melt all barriers.

Oh, what riches live in a sunny soul! What a blessed heritage is a sunny face, to be able to fling out sunshine wherever one goes, to be able to scatter the shadows and to lighten sorrow laden hearts, to have power to send cheer into despairing souls through a sunny and a radiant heart! And if, haply, this heritage is combined with a superb manner and exquisite personality, no money wealth can compare with its value.

This blessing is not very difficult of acquisition, for a sunny face is but a reflection of a warm, generous heart. The sunshine does not appear first upon the face, but in the soul. The glad smile that makes the face radiant is but a glimpse of the soul's sunshine.—O. S. Marden in Success Magazine.

UNIQUE FEATS.

Odd Physical Tricks That People Here and There Can Do.

A group of traveling men were discussing unique feats and physical tricks that people here and there can do.

"I know a Chicagoan," said one, "who can whistle a tune and hum its accompaniment at the same time. He whistles through a flat, not through the usual round hole, and the deep, musical accompaniment together with the shrill sweetness of the whistle makes a mighty attractive thing to hear."

"I knew a barber," said the second drummer, "who had a unique way of cracking nuts. He would place a nut between the back of his head and a stone or brick wall, and then he would give himself a sharp rap on the forehead with his fist. The nuts would crack open every time."

"A Manayunk man," said the third, "can give his head a jerk that turns back his eyelids. He has to turn them down again with his fingers. This is an ugly feat, and I'm glad it is rare."

"I knew at school," said the fourth drummer, "a boy named Bucky Adams who could play tunes by snapping his fingers. The thumb and first two fingers of each hand would work away busily, and forth would come the clearest, sweetest, faintest music. I used to sit with Bucky Adams, and many a tedious school session would be make shorter and pleasanter with this odd gift."—New York Press.

A Little Farther On.

Just a little farther on waits a wondrous April dawn,
When the boughs will break in blossoms as a flag is lifted up,
When the grass will rise and run with the laughter of the sun
And the sky will seem to pour us wine from out a magic cup.
And we'll sing because of knowing all the songs the wind is blowing,
And the earth will be the gladder for the dreary days agone.
Then we'll catch the murmured words in the singing of the birds,
When the earth has rolled to springtime—just a little farther on.

For the good old earth it knows where the robin and the rose
Wait to set our hearts to leaping for the beauty of the day,
And it knows the necromance of the violets that dance
To the music of the brooklet that once more is loosed in play.
Ho, the blossom petals drifting in the breeze forever shifting
And the forests flaming greener for their battle with the snows!
Then we'll catch the melodies of the waking honeybees,
For the good old earth is rolling to the robin and the rose.

Shut your eyes and you may dream of the dandelion's gleam
Where the careless hand of springtime has been spilling all its gold,
While the meadow overnight flings aside the wintry blight,
And its carpet smooth as velvet is by fairy hands unrolled.
Then we'll know the tang and tingle of the blossom scents that mingle,
And we'll taste the joys of living in the wondrous April dawn,
For we're swinging to the whiles of the singing and the smiles,
To the blessedness of springtime—just a little farther on.

—W. D. Nesbit in Chicago Tribune.

Not a Safe Rule.

"I believe," said the enthusiastic young author, "that the first thing a man should do when he proposes to write a paper of any kind is to get full of his subject."

"I disagree with you," replied his more mature friend. "In fact, I shudder to think of what might result if I followed your advice."

"What are you working on?"

"An address on intoxicating liquors to be read before our temperance society."

Women and Money.

The moment the mothly salary crosses the bare necessity line, that moment the horizon of want begins to widen. For every dollar the salary increases, the imagination finds a place for two dollars, four or five. A great part of the demands existing in the worldtoday are romantic. How shall the imagination be schooled, where shall the line be drawn? It should be considered a part of morality to live within the income, but on every side there seems to be an attempt to stretch the $1000 income to a $2000 scale; the $2000 income to a $3000 scale $3000 is made to do duty for $5000; and $5000 is thinly stretched to the breaking point to simulate a $10,000 income. With every added dollar the horizon of wants will widen, unless the imagination is wisely schooled. Sadly do we need training to draw the line between wants and needs.

The great pity of our American life is that we allow our pace to be set, not by the moderate ones, but by the immoderate ones We are money mad. The old conservative ideas on which men of former times conducted business and built their fortunes have been swept aside by new methods of risk and daring that often succeed because of favoring circum-tances. The old philosophy of conservatism is replaced by a philosophy of buccanneering. New, new, everything is new and different. Our moorings are gone. We know not whaf to think. But the laws are immutable which declare that it is not possible for all the people to spend more than t ey earn, nor can reckless extravagances fail to end some time in disaster.

The Gambling Laws Holds.

f you have lo money in a gambling house, sue the owner of the building or let your wife sue for you. The owner will have to pay the judgement. This was decided in a decision rendered by Justice Peckham, of the United States Supreme court, in a test case referring to the constitutionality of the Ohio State law against gambling. The judge decided not only that the law is constitutional, but that the owners of a house where gambling is carried on with his knowledge is responsible for the losses in the game. This decision reaches every State in the Union which has a gambling law.

Benefits Forgot.

Whatever else one may say of life, however, one may abuse and ill-treat it and call it by all sorts of fantastic and uncomplimentary names, there is one thing that it brings us, one thing whose lack would make dullards and cowards of us all—hope.

If to-day we fall by the wayside, to-morrow the path will be fairer; if to-day death seems near, to-morrow is buoyant with renewed health; if today our courage fails, our friends are cold, our work is overlooked and unrewarded, tomorrow brings renewed strength, fresh promise and boundless appreciation.

We are all very much like grown-up children. We go through our daily tasks for the most part uncomplainingly, because we fancy there must be a reward of some kind waiting for us when the work is done.

"The heavy trouble, the bewildering care that weighs us down who live and earn our bread" are forgotten in the thought of benefits to come, of the glittering prize to be handed to each one of us when the task master passes our way.

Only a few great souls have been content to labor on for the guerdon of their own approbation. The rest of us believe in a quick and sure reward, and if it does not come we are rather apt to throw down our petty business and vow we can endure life no longer.

It is well for us that the term of hoping is prolonged until the term of life expires, says Cally Ryland.

Every teacher knows that a prize is the greatest incentive to study to nine-tenths of her class; every employer understands that promotion and an increase of salary is the motive power of most of the men who work under him; every parent realizes the value of encouragement to his children, and the housekeeper is equally well aware that without occasional commendation, her servants will go about their work unwillingly and with little interest; and yet, knowing this, the greater portion of us rub shoulders with the jostling world indifferently, paying out our small coins of promise only to those who clear the path before us and render our progress less difficult.

There is nothing so entirely hopeless as to do one's best with no other reward than the consciousness of having done one's best.

Yet that is what hundreds of us are doing today, giving out strength and vitality lavishly with no other encouragement than the "well done" of our own consciences, which somehow never can mean as much to us as the approving nod of the least of our fellow men.

It would seem a very small thing to commend, to express approbation, yet from our continual unwillingness to give it, it must, in effect, require violent effort on our part.

It is like drawing eye-teeth for some of us to utter words of praise even to our nearest and dearest; how then shall we go outside to give them to others? We are so apt to forget that any one needs encouragement but ourselves.

Praise is a tonic. It is the true elixir of life. To withhold it is unpardonable and uncharitable; to pour it our indiscriminately is vulgar; but to give it generously, appreciatively, from a full, warm heart is divine.

Carlyle, in his grief for "that noble human soul which accompanied all his steps for forty years, cried out in his despair: "Blind and deaf that we are; oh, think, if thou yet love anybody living, wait not till death sweeps down the palsy little dust clouds, and idle dissonancer of the moment and all be at last so mournfully clear and beautiful—when it is too late."

History of Our Cent.

The cent was first proposed by our own Robert Morris, the great financier of the revolution, and was named by Jefferson two years later. It began to make its appearance from the mint in 1792. It bore the head of Washington on one side and thirteen links on the other. The French revolution soon created a rage for French ideas in America, which put on the cent, instead of the head of the Goddess of Liberty, a French liberty, with neck thrust forward and flowing locks. The chain on the reverse side was displaced by the olive wreath of peace, but the French liberty was short lived, and so was the portrait on our cent. The next head or figure that succeeded this—the staid, classic dame with a fillet around her hair—came into fashion about thirty or forty years ago, and her finely chiseled Grecian features have been but slightly altered by the lapse of time.

Baptists Wouldn't Forego Immersion.

HOW TWO BEAUTIFUL WOMEN ESCAPED PELVIC CATARRH BY AID OF PE-RU-NA.

Female Weakness Is Usually Pelvic Catarrh. Pe-ru-na Cures Catarrh Wherever Located.

Mrs. Lizzie Redding, 3134 B Clifton Place, St. Louis, Mo., writes:

"I found after trying many different medicines to restore me to health, that Peruna was the only thing which could be depended upon. I began taking it when I was in a decline, induced by female weakness and overwrought nerves.

"I began to feel stronger during the first week I took Peruna and my health improved daily until now I am in perfect health and enjoy life as I never did before."—Lizzie Redding.

Mrs. Mable Bradford, 13 Church street, Burlington, Vt., Secretary Whittier Oratorio Society, writes:

"Peruna is certainly a wonderful medicine for the ills of women. I have heard it spoken of in the highest praise by many, and certainly my experienco is well worthy of a good word.

"I began to have severe pains across my back about a year ago, brought on by a cold, and each subsequent month brought me pain and distress.

"Your remedy was prescribed, and the way it acted upon my system was almost too good to be true. I certainly have regained my health and strength, and I no longer suffer periodical pains and extreme lassitude."—Mable Bradford.

Thousands of Women Cured Every Year by Correspondence--This Is What Dr. Hartman Proposes to Do For You Without Charge.

Women who suffer should read the evidences presented here. We have thousands of letters from grateful friends who tell the same story.

Half the ills that are peculiarly woman's own are of a catarrhal character. Female weakness was not understood for many years.

Dr. Hartman deserves the credit of having determined its real character. He has made catarrh and catarrhal diseases, including pelvic catarrh a life long study.

Peruna cures catarrh, whether of the pelvic organs or any other organ of the human body.

Pe-ru-na, a Natural Beautifier.

Peruna produces clean, mucous membranes, the basis of facial symmetry and a perfect complexion.

The women have not been slow to discover that a course of Peruna will do more toward restoring youthful beauty than all the devices known to science.

Many a girl has regained her faded beauty, many a matron has lengthened the days of her comely appearance by using Peruna.

In Peruna these women find a prompt and permanent cure.

Thousands of testimonials to this effect are received by Dr. Hartman every year. The good that Peruna has accomplished in this class of cases can scarcely be over-estimated.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

To Claen Soiled Furs.

If your furs begin to look soiled about the neck they may be cleaned at home with very little trouble. Get from any furrier some of their veneering sawdust that they use for this purpose. Dampen it with gasoline or benzine and rub thoroughly the furs. This cleans them perfectly. Beat well, then air. It goes without saying that the work must not be done near any kind of flame. Corn meal or clean hot sand, just hot enough to escape burning the hand, brushed well into the furs and then shaken out are also employed for the same purpose.

—The Presbyterians will be favored on Sunday next with sermons from the Rev. Guy Louis Morrill, of Moosic, Pennsylvania, who has been particularly recommended to the Bellefonte Presbyterian church by Mr. Robert E Speer of New York City, (so well known here) and Prof. Wm. Brenton Greene Jr. D. D of Princeton College. As next Sunday is expected to terminate the candidating for the pulpit, (notice having been given for a Congregational meeting for the following Sunday, for the purpose of making a selection), and on account of the high recommendations spoken of, the church will no doubt be well filled at both morning and evening services to hear Mr. Morrill preach.

—Prof. J. Angel, the eye specialist of Williamsport, will be at the Brockerhoff house next week. Thursday, and until noon Friday, March 15-16, for all those who desire to consult him in regard to weak or defective vision. The professor has been coming to Bellefonte for a number of years and his skill as an eye specialist has been tested by hundreds of our people who all express themselves as highly satisfied with his work. If your eyes are troubling you, give him a call and be convinced. All work guaranteed; prices reasonable.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Our thanks are due the "Dickens Club," of young ladies for an excellent supply of dishes, cups and saucers which they have kindly donated to the association. These dishes are of the same design as those presented by Mrs. Hastings three weeks ago, so we now have dishes enough to supply a supper to seventy-five persons. Our needs in the kitchen are now, knives, forks, spoons, glasses, tin-ware and tables.

The local young men's Christian Association now has about 320 members, including the boy's department. The young men come from every station in life and many members live outside of our Borough. Many of the members are new comers to town and are strangers to the rank and file of their fellows members, It is thought that if the association could have one great getting together, that it would foster the brotherhood spirit, break the ice between many fellows, solidify the association membership and strengthen the organization.

An executive committee consisting of five men from each of the Orange and Red teams has been appointed to devise ways and means for a membership supper and rally to come soon after Easter.

The committee realizes that it has entered upon a large undertaking, but thinks that if the friends are willing to support them in the effort, success will be assured. The committee will hold a meeting Monday evening so, in the mean time, would ask the friends to make suggestions by postal cards addressed to the Y. M. C. A., also to indicate what support could be counted upon in the way of provisions for a supper, if you could loan a table cloth etc. Of course the above plan will not be pushed unless plenty of support is assured.

The members of the executive committee are as follows: S. A. Keefer, Darius Waite, Claude Smith, Russel Blair, Wilson Gephart, John Bullock, J. R. Hughes, Herbert Roob, John Hosterman, E. J. Seaman.

There has been a challenge given by a bowling team consisting of five Logan Firemen, which is to be known in the future as the Logan team, to play a three game tournament on Wednesday, March 14 at 7:30 p. m. with any five members of the Y. M. C. A.

Committees have been appointed from the Orange and Red teams to prepare a supper for all members of the Y. M. C. A. Already enough money has been collected to buy the ice-cream so that they are sure of a cool reception.

The record for high bowling is held by Mr Klugstone. It being 215. Jas. Harshberger second 212.

The Y. M. C. A. is sadly in need of furnishings. Everyone should see that the wants of this new home are provided for.

A very interesting meeting was held Sunday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, and was largely attended by the junior members and many kind friends who are interested in this work.

Master George Tanner conducted the meeting and was ably assisted by the chorister Master Harris Olewine. Excellent music was furnished by physical director Godfrey who manipulated the keys of the piano with grace and elegance.

The Board of directors of the Y. M. C. A., passed a resolution thanking all those who contributed to the success of the Orange and Red membership contest. About 320 memberships was the result of the contest.

Sale of Central R. R. of Pa. Denied Says Centre Democrat.

The Bellefonte Centre Democrat of March 1st contains the following brief comment on the rumors of a contemplated purchase of the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania by the New York Central road:

"Items appearing in our exchanges state that the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania has been sold to the New York Central which will take charge on April 1st, are attracting some attention. Inquiry was made at the offices and nothing whatever was known there of such a sale, and the report was ridiculed.

It is a fact that an inventory of the entire road was made a short time ago by the N. Y. Central engineers, and from that fact it appears the rumors of a sale arose. Were such a change to be made the offices and shops would be discontinued here, and would be of no advantage to our town."

It would seem that in view of the persistency of these rumors of the sources from which they come, and of the very apparent benefits to be derived by both roads from such an amalgamation of interests, the Democrat is perhaps a trifle to credulous, or that the fact that Bellefonte would, in the event of a sale, be deprived of the shops and officers of the smaller company has based its opinion.

Notwithstanding the denial by the officials in Bellefonte, there is the best of reasons to believe that important developments in this connection may be looked for in the near future and the Express is in possession of information which while not yet available for publication is still of such a nature as to preclude the acceptance of the statement of the Central Pennsylvania officials as authentic.—Lock Haven Express.

Flagged the Moon.

Flagging the moon was the recent experience of a well known Philadelphia and Reading railroader who was making a trip to Tamaqua from Newberry. When the train stopped at a small station the flagman went back 2 telegraph poles to flag following trains in accordance with the rules. It was his custom to tie a piece of cotton waste to the 24th pole as a precaution to himself in case a following train ran by his signal; also to place two caps on the rail and then walk eight telegraph poles toward his train.

On the trip in question, after performing these duties the flagman was waiting to be recalled, when he saw what he took to be the headlight of a locomotive about one-half mile distant, running in his direction, just beyond a grove of pine trees. He swung his lantern across the tracks for some time, but did not receive any response from the supposed train.

A gentleman living near the tracks stepped up to him and told him that he had been called four times by his train, to which he angrily responded that he did not intend going in until he flagged the train which was following so recklessly. Just then the moon rose above the clump of pine trees to full view. When the flagman discovered his error he attempted to keep the story mum by giving the man $2, but the latter proved a traitor.

Newspaper Pictures Good as Photographs.

With its issue of Sunday, March 11th. The Pittsburg Gazette will begin the publication of a half-tone illustrated section of eight full sized pages. This section will be printed on a high grade of book paper with fine inks, making the whole equal to high class magazine work. The illustrations will consist of reproductions of interesting photographs of people and things, the character of the work making each cut look like a photograph. While the art of making cuts has reached a high degree of perfection, the printing of them in newspapers on fast presses and soft paper has not been satisfactory. For this reason The Pittsburg Gazette has taken this forward step at a great expense, but with the determination that no paper in the Smoky City will excel it in any feature. No doubt there will be a great demand for The Sunday Gazette, and those who wish it should place their order early.

Burned to Death in Theatre.

Altoona, Pa., March 3rd.—It was discovered that Mrs. William Homan, 60 years of age, wife of an old soldier, had lost her life in the fire which damaged the Williamsburg Opera house. It was supposed that all had gotten out in safety. Elsie Baker, one of the entertainers, was injured by jumping from a window. The monetary loss is estimated at $10,000.

Fort Smith, Ark., March 3.—The Southern Bank and Trust company, a recent corporation, with an authorized capital of $600,000, failed to open its doors. A notice was posted to the effect that the bank interests had been sold to Thomas Neal, an attorney of Fort Smith, who it was stated, would pay all the depositors in full. The deposits amount to $80,000. The assets, consisting of notes, loans, discounts and office fixtures, amount to about a like sum.

MISSIONER.

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN.

A bright little fellow
Once lived on a farm;
Done chores at the house,
And chores at the barn;
He cleaned out the pig sty,
And cleaned out the stalls
Wore a rimless straw hat,
And old blue overall's

He turned the old grindstone
For the reapers at noon;
Eat mush in the winter
With an old pewter spoon,
This dear little fellow,
Had to sleep on a loft
And ever since that
He has had a bad cough.

But today he's a merchant
In an up-to-date town
A man of great riches
And a man of renown
This is no poets fancy,
Dear boys it is real,
For on the seat of his britches
Hangs an automobile.

A FRIEND.

Banana Salad.

This should not be made until ready to use, as banana darkens in standing. Have the fruit very cold. Cut into dice and mix with a dressing composed of two teaspoonsful of olive oil, one teaspoonful of vinegar, one teaspoonful lemon juice and a quarter teaspoonful each salt and pepper. Fill the banana skins, which should be opened to look like boats, and set on lettuce leaves. Sprinkle a few halves of English walnuts and a little minced parsley over the top of the salad and serve at once.

Postmaster Falsified Vouchers.

Somerville, N. J., March 3.—George W. Cooper, formerly postmaster here was arrested, charged with falsifying his vouchers. The arrest was made by post-office inspectors, and it is alleged that Cooper while postmaster falsified vouchers by which he obtained $1300 a year for the services of one of his assistants, to whom he paid but $600 a year. Cooper was removed from the postmastership after an investigation some time ago. This investigation, the authorities alleged disclosed irregularities in his accounts.

Found Dead in Benzine Vat.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 1.—Albert Sonicker, 19 years old, was found dead in a benzine vat at the plant of the Canfield Oil company, at Craopolis. Sonicker was in charge of the benzine filter at the plant, and is supposed to have gone to sleep and to have fallen into the vat, which contained about six inches of benzine. He was asphyxiated by the fumes.

AN INTERESTING STATEMENT.

C. M. Parrish Says He Has at Last Discovered a Positive Cure for Indigestion.

"For years," said the above druggist "we have been waiting for some one to discover a remedy that really will cure dyspepsia.

"I recently learned that a new remedy, Pepsikola Tablets, had been placed on the market, and on investigation I found that at last there is a remedy that surely will come.

"I laid in a big supply because I knew that as soon as the people began to know about this remarkable remedy there would be a big demand for it, and it is selling beyond my expectations."

It is not often a druggist sells a new remedy on a positive guarantee, but unless cured of nervousness, dizzy spells, sour stomach, coated tongue, palpitation and other symptoms of dyspepsia, Mr. Parrish will hand back your money cheerfully and without argument.

No one should hesitate on trying a 25-cent box of Pepsikola Tablets, as they will not cost you a penny should they fail to relieve and cure the very worst case of indigestion and dyspepsia.

—The Rev. J. A. Platts, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, Allegheny, Pennsylvania, was the preacher at the Bellefonte Presbyterian church, on Sunday last. He delivered two very able sermons before large congregations. His evening discourse was particularly addressed to young men.

A HISTORIC SHELLFISH.

The Purpura Was Quite a Factor In the World's Civilization.

A small sea creature has done a lot to assist the development of civilization. It is known as the murex or purpura. From it the Phoenicians manufactured the Tyrian purple, the origin of their wealth and prosperity. As each shellfish yielded but one drop of the dyeing material and as 300 pounds were needed to dye fifty pounds of wool the home fisheries became in time exhausted. Then, finding it necessary to seek a supply elsewhere, the traders started on the first voyage of discovery ever made. Owing to this voyage the Mediterranean, with all the countries that surround it, was discovered.

Through this small creature also the first colonies were founded. The Phoenicians, finding it impracticable to bring home large shiploads of the fish, built at those spots where the raw material abounded factories, which gradually developed into permanent settlements.

And as many of these colonies were founded on Grecian islands the apt natives quickly acquired the arts and industries of their visitors, which were soon diffused throughout Greece, and the first seeds of civilization were sown.

Early English Lotteries.

Probably the first public lottery ever held took place in England in 1567, when 40,000 chances were sold at 10 shillings each, the prizes consisting chiefly of plate and the profits going for the repair of certain harbors. The drawing took place at the west door of St. Paul's cathedral. In 1612 another lottery took place at St. Paul's. This was for the benefit of the Virginia company. The highest prize was £1,000, and £20,000 profit was gained. Again, in 1630, a lottery was promoted in order to bring water into London, and after the civil war another lottery helped to replenish an exhausted national exchequer. Private lotteries soon became very common, and, being generally conducted on fraudulent principles, an act of parliament was passed early in the reign of Queen Anne suppressing them "as public nuisances." In 1694 a loan of £1,000,000 was raised by the sale of lottery tickets at £10 each, and in 1710 £1,500,000 was raised by ten pound tickets, each ticket being entitled to an annuity for thirty-two years, the blanks 14 shillings per annum, the prizes varying from £5 to £1,000 per annum.

Old Inns In England.

There is an almost puritanical simplicity about many of the old English inns and alehouses often in keeping with the old world names of their proprietors, as, for example, Amos Gale, Shadrach Meade, Samuel Ward or Mary Ann Mulcock. The names of the inns would require a paper to themselves. The Three Horseshoes has for its rival across the road the Four Horseshoes. At Peters Green the sign of the Half Moon nods complacently across the heath to the Bright Star. A favorite name in many a village is derived from the number of bells in the tower of the parish church. Thus there is the Six Bells at St. Michael's, where Lord Bacon lies buried, and Hatfield and Luton have each their Eight Bells. The Bull, the Bell, the Plow, the Rose and Crown, the George and the Dragon, the Red Lion, are old stagers to be found everywhere, reminding one of Joseph Addison's delightful essay in the earlier Spectators on the signposts of London, in which he says that "our streets are filled with blue boars, black swans and red lions, not to mention dying pigs and hogs in armor."—London Spectator.

ASPARAGUS.

Its Relation to the Famous Asphodel of the Early Ages.

As a tickler of the palate asparagus has come down the ages with all the weight of Greek and Roman approval. Plato ate it by the plateful, and Aristophanes, the humorist, regarded it as a great aid in digesting the crank philosophers of the day.

It is an odd fact that this culinary plant is closely related to the famous asphodel, which was supposed by the ancients to be the leading flower in the gardens of the elysium, the Greek purgatory or paradise. A part of the quaintness of this lies in the fact that the roots possess purgative qualities. The roots and fruit of both were formerly much used in medicine for this purpose.

According to the superstition of the Romans the manes of the dead fed on the roots of the asphodel. They planted it, therefore, in and around the cemeteries; hence to this day it [illegible] with its beautiful golden blossoms [illegible] profusely as dandelions the Apu[illegible] and valleys, and the sheep feed [illegible] greedily.

It belongs to the same natural order of perennials, and the only difference between the asparagus and the asphodel appears to be in the fruit and the color of the flowers. So abundant is the wild asparagus in the steppes of Russia that cattle eat it like grass, just as Italian sheep devour its botanical cousin.

A Damaged Mirror.

To repair a damaged [illegible] upon a sheet of [illegible] drams of quicksilver [illegible] foot of tin. Rub smartly [illegible] of backs in until the [illegible] face downward. [illegible] the dark portion [illegible] a sheet of paper [illegible] upon it. [illegible] of marble [illegible] put [illegible] it down [illegible] position a few hours. The foil will adhere to the glass.

THE GOLDFINCH.

Changes in Plumage That Are Puzzling to the Novice.

Most every one in America is acquainted with the goldfinch, but many people know the bird by the name of lettuce bird, on account of its bright yellow color. Goldfinch is a very appropriate name, as the bright yellow of the male, when in breeding plumage, is like burnished gold. The female goldfinch is more modestly dressed than her mate. The [illegible] plumage of the male [illegible] very interesting and to the novice somewhat puzzling. Until one has become acquainted with the bird he may wonder why he sees no males during the winter. The truth is, at this season the flocks of supposed female goldfinches are really of both sexes, the male bird having assumed in the previous fall, usually by the end of October, a plumage closely resembling that of the female and young bird of the year. The male retains this inconspicuous dress until late in February, when one can notice a gradual change taking place in some of the birds. This renewal of feathers is actively continued through March and April, and by the 1st of May our resplendent bird is with us again. The song period with the male goldfinch continues as long as he wears his gold and black livery, for it commences as early as the middle of March and ends late in August. Goldfinches are very cleanly in their habits and bathe frequently. Their nests are exquisite pieces of bird architecture, the inside being lined with the softest plant down. The mother bird is the builder, her handsome consort during the nest building time devoting most of his efforts to singing to cheer his industrious mate.—Philadelphia Press.

THE USEFUL YAWN.

This Lung Ventilating Process Serves a Double Purpose.

The act of yawning is distinctly beneficial in two ways. In the first place it serves the purpose of lung ventilation. The lungs are not filled or exhausted by ordinary respiration. There is a certain quantity of air which physiologists call "residual air" left in the recesses of the lungs after the ordinary respiration. This in time becomes vitiated and affects the blood and, through it, the nervous centers.

The result is a yawn, which is really a stretching of the respiratory chamber to its fullest capacity and the filling of it with freshly inspired air which drives the vitiated air out. Yawning is also beneficial in so far as it opens, stretches and ventilates the vocal, nasal and auditory chambers in immediate connection with the mouth.

The cracking sound often heard when yawning is due to the stretching and opening of the eustachian tubes, which form a communication between the middle ear and the back of the throat. The deafness which often accompanies a cold is due to the congestion of these tubes.—London Hospital.

A Curious Oath.

The following curious oath was until recent years administered in the courts of the Isle of Man: "By this book, and by the holy contents thereof, and by the wonderful works that God has miraculously wrought in heaven above and in the earth beneath in six days and seven nights, I do swear that I will, without respect of favor or friendship, love or gain, consanguinity or affinity, envy or malice, execute the laws of this isle and between party and party as indifferently as the herring's backbone doth lie in the middle of the fish."

Heart and Lungs.

The action of the heart, lungs and digestive system is involuntary, for the reason that it is indispensable to life and must be carried on under all circumstances. If a man had to think of his heart or had to remember that he must breathe or that his food must digest he would have no time to do anything else, and if by chance he should forget to keep his heart going or his lungs in operation he would fall dead on the spot.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as some people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, as both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

IN THE NITRATE COUNTRY.

Industry of the Barren, Dusty Deserts of South America.

In his "Commercial Traveler In South America" Frank Wiborg writes: "We stopped at a number of the nitrate towns—Pisagua, Iquique, Autofagasta—and I visited some of the mills, or officinas, in order to see something of the industry. Deposits of the crude nitrate of soda, called here 'caliche,' are found in the pampa, or rolling plateau, beyond the first range of foothills. In some places this plateau is but ten miles from the coast, in others as far as fifty miles. The pampa is an utterly barren desert. On the surface there is nothing to tempt the heart of man, but a few feet down lies the nitrate stratum. This presents much the appearance of rock salt and varies in color, according to the purity of the deposit, from a whitish tint to a dark gray. The upper earth is blown away with dynamite, and then the caliche is dug out with pick and shovel, loaded on iron carts and carried up to the mills.

"Here the caliche is first broken into small pieces by heavy crushers and then put into large boiling vats. Inside these vats are coils of steam pipes, by means of which the temperature can be regulated accurately. Sea water is poured in, and the caliche is boiled for a certain time. The liquid solution that results is drawn off into settling vats, which are exposed to the open air and the sun. Evaporation is rapid, and the first time on record of gold being found in this country.

Lukeen was born of Russian and Spanish-American creole parents in the Ross colony in California. He was well educated at the Sitka school and proved to be an active, energetic and intelligent officer. In 1865 Lukeen ascended the Yukon river from St. Michael's to Fort Gibbon, at the Hudson Bay company's trading post, which was built by McMurray, who descended the Porcupine river in 1847. Lukeen was the first man who connected the Pelly river of Campbell and the sea. He returned to St. Michael's that fall. In 1866 the Russian garrison at Klamakoff redoubt, in charge of Dementoff, was withdrawn, the United States having purchased Alaska from the Russians.—Ketchikan Mining Journal.

THE GOLD OF ALASKA.

It Was First Found by a Russian Trader In 1832.

Gold was first discovered in Alaska on the Anauk river, a tributary of the Kuskokowim river, which joins the latter stream about twenty-five miles below the trading post of Kalamakofisky. The Anauk river was discovered by Ivan Simenson Lukeen in 1832, at which time he built a fort, called Lukeen's fort, on the Kuskowim river, twenty-five miles above the mouth of the Anauk. It was partly destroyed by natives in 1841 and rebuilt by Kalamakoff, a Russian trader, afterward and called Kalamakoff redoubt.

In 1882 the headquarters of the Russian-American Trading company were at Sitka, and supplies were transported from thence to Lukeen's fort by way of Nushagak river, Tic-chic river and lake and down the Anauk river to the Kuskowim river and thence upstream twenty-five miles to the fort. In 1837 the yearly supplies were sent in by way of the mouth of the Kuskowim river and the old way abandoned as a summer route and used only for the purpose of wending out the mails during the winter by dog teams. It was the only winter route the Russians ever used from any point on the Yukon to the outside (Sitka) and was only abandoned for the purpose after they left the country.

It was while on one of these trips in 1832 that the Russians discovered gold on the Anauk, and it is known today as the Yellow river of the Russians. It is not known whether they ever attempted mining on any large scale or whether they found gold in paying quantities, but it is thought to be the pure nitrate or soda soon begins crystallizing and settling to the bottom. After this has gone on for some time the remaining liquid is drawn off and the crust of nitrate is scraped from the sides and bottom of the vat and thoroughly dried in the sun. Then it is graded according to quality and packed for shipment in 100 pound sacks.

"Most of the nitrate exported is used as a fertilizer, but a part goes to the manufacture of powder and high explosives. The nitrate towns are even barer and drier and less inviting than most of the other bare, dry towns of the coast. To some of them fresh water is brought in pipes from a distance of more than 100 miles. Before the day of these pipes it used to be sold in the streets by the gallon. That water even now, though not scarce, yet is not plentiful, is perhaps some excuse for the awful dust that blows everywhere."

German Care of Landscapes.

Most German states have laws to prevent the disfigurement of landscapes by advertisements. The district authorities are authorized to determine what landscapes, buildings or monuments of historical or artistic value should be protected. Violations of the statute are made punishable by fine, with or without imprisonment. The statute provides against the display of pictures, advertisements or other things calculated to mar or disfigure any especially attractive landscape or detract from the artistic or aesthetic effect of any building or other structure of special importance or as highly prejudicial to any street or part of a city. The alteration of buildings of historical or artistic value may be prohibited by the local authorities, as may the construction of other buildings calculated to interfere with such historical monuments.

The deceased whose maiden name was Marie A. Fonteroy, was born in Paris, France; 79 years ago last November. She was the daughter of Catherine and Pierre Henri who when our subject was but 9 years old came to this country and settled in Frenchville, Clearfield county; where Marie grew to young womanhood, and at the age of 19 years was united in marriage with John Bronoel, one of that towns most prosperous young men, later coming to Milesburg where Mr. Bronoel met a tragic death on the railroad crossing near his home. This union was blessed by 10 children as follows: Frank, of Lewistown; Agusta, wife of Adam Redding, Gettsburg; Leopold, Plaino, Ill.; Mrs. Jean Derr, dec'd., Bellefonte, Sidoine, Pittsburg; Mary, wife of Patrick J. Hayes, of Spangler, Justin, deceased, Minnie, of Philadelphia, Pauline at home and John, deceased. About 37 years ago our subject was again united in marriage to John B. Rolley, of Clearfield county, to this union was born two daughters, Florence, wife of Emil Loiret, of Ispheming, Mich., and Mrs. Odilla Mott, of Bellefonte After Mr. Rolley's death which occurred some 18 years ago she was for the third time united in marriage, this time to Mr. Joseph Folmar, one of Clearfields most prosperous farmers, who survives her.

For over 40 years she has resided in Milesburg at what is known as the Bronoel—Rolley—Folmar homestead where by her kindness and charity she had endeared herself to both old and young. Over 15 years ago she was stricken with paralysis and for the last year confined to her bed, where all that kind and loving hands could do for her was done. She was always hopeful and expressed a desire to get about again. She was a devout member of St. Johns' Catholic church and the funeral took place Monday, morning at 10 o'clock. The pall-bearers were: Philip Beezer, Mr. Mosebarger, Mr. Charles, Mr. Weaver, Mr. Peters and Mr. Caldwell. Interment in the Catholic cemetery.

Quail to be Introduced into Pennsylvania

After strenuous efforts among the game officials in southern states, the Chief Protector Kalpfus has succeeded in arranging for the purchase, by Pennsylvania of 222 dozen quail at $9 per dozen—$2,000 in all. These quail will be distributed throughout the state forestry reserves, the distribution to be made by the deputy game protectors. Dr. Kalpfus is now sending letters to the deputies asking opinion as to the number of birds for different localities, and notifying them of the probable date of receipt of quail. None of these birds will be distributed on other than state lands and none can be secured for private distribution. It is the plan of the game commission to place the birds where they will receive the greatest protection, trap them, keep them in captivity next winter so that the natural loss will be as few as possible, and turn them loose in the spring. By thus protecting the old birds as well as the young, propagation of them will be more rapid than by any other method.

Miss Kathryn Rumberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Rumberger, of Chestnut Hill, and who has been teaching the South Philipsburg primary school during the present term, was married on Thursday last to Samuel B. Stine, son of S. B. Stine, the well known Osceola Foundryman. The wedding took place at Harrisburg, Rev. Isaac L. Wood officiating. The young couple returned home on Saturday evening, and are busy receiving the congratulations of their friends. The bride is a very excellent young lady, and in every way worthy the hand of the young man who has taken her to be his bride. The groom is at present taking a course of study in the Newark (Delaware) college, from which institution he will graduate in June, at which time they will go to housekeeping at Osceola. We join in very best wishes.
